Lower Fremont Distribution System

The Lower Fremont Distribution System for the water year 2001 experienced a slight fluctuation in water flow and distribution levels. The water as a general rule was delivered thru out the system. A slight drop was experienced in July and the end of June. The condition of the systems measuring devices and ditch systems as a whole is very good. Some activities of concern for the year 2002 are: the gated pipe system being installed on the Maxfield place - it will need to be monitored and kept on track. Measuring devices still need to be installed on the Alexander property - betterhand called the Jensen property. AS an overall water delivery system things went well - thru 2001.
